- iii. the customer warrants that the customer is willing and able, financially and otherwise, to assume the risk of trading in speculative investments;
- iv. the customer agrees not to hold the Company responsible for losses incurred as a consequence of the Company carrying the customer's account and following its recommendations or suggestions or those of its employees, associates or representatives, unless the Company has exercised gross negligence in connection herewith;

2.3 Orders may be placed as market orders to buy or sell as soon as possible at the price obtainable in the market, or on selected products as limit and stop orders to trade when the price reaches a pre-defined level. Limit orders to buy and stop orders to sell must be placed below the current market price, and limit orders to sell and stop orders to buy must be placed above the current market price. If the bid price for sell orders or ask price for buy orders is reached, the order will be filled as soon as possible at the price obtainable in the market.

Limit and stop orders are executed consistent with "LITTLE BLACK DIAMOND LTD's BEP" and are not guaranteed executable at the specified price or amount, unless explicitly stated by the Company for the specific order.

2.4 In relation to any transaction or Contract, the Company will affect such transaction or Contract as Principal unless it is specifically agreed that the Company shall act as Agent for the customer.

2.5 The Customer shall, unless otherwise agreed in writing, relative to the Company enter into Contracts as Principal.

2.6 If the customer acts as Agent, regardless of whether the customer identifies the Principal to the Company, the Company shall not be obliged to accept the said Principal as a customer, and consequently the Company shall be entitled to consider the customer as Principal in relation to the Contract.

2.7 When the customer enters into a CO with the Company, the Company will act as counterparty to the customer. The Company will enter into a contract with a Counterparty which is identical in all respects to the contract between the Company and the customer. The Counterparty will in turn enter into a contract on the relevant exchange (unless Market Rules requires the Counterparty to act as the Company's Agent in which case the Company will enter into a contract on the exchange). The customer is contracting with the Company and has no right of recourse against the Company's Counterparties or any right over contracts between the Company and its Counterparties.

2.8 The Company shall not provide any advice, information or recommendations to the customer of the Company as it shall not be responsible for the profitability of such advice, information or recommendation as further stipulated in Clause 19, and the customer acknowledges, recognizes and understands that:

- i. All transactions in exchange-traded investments and many Contracts will be affected subject to, and in accordance with, Market Rules;
- ii. Market Rules usually contain far-reaching powers in an emergency or otherwise undesirable situation;

- iv. The Company shall not be liable for any loss as further stipulated in Clause 3.3.1 and 19.3 and suffered by the customer as a result of the acts or omissions of any exchange or clearing house or any action reasonably taken by the Company as a result of such acts or omissions unless the Company has exercised gross negligence in connection hereby;

- v. Where any transaction is affected by the Company as Agent for the customer, delivery or payment (as appropriate) by the other party to the transaction shall be at the customer's entire risk;
- vi. - vii. The company may in whole or in part, on a permanent or temporary basis withdraw any account facility provided by the company to the customer. Situations where the Company may take such action include situations where:
 - o the Company considers that there are abnormal trading conditions; or
 - o the Company is unable to calculate prices in the relevant Contract due to the unavailability of the relevant market information.

2.9 The Company shall inform the customer of the withdrawal and the reasons for it, where possible, before the withdrawal and if this is not possible immediately thereafter, unless giving such information would compromise objectively justified security reasons.

2.9.1 The Company reserves a right to raise commission on withdrawal up to 4.5% in case there is no sufficient trading activity between last deposits and withdraw request which the customers will be given prior notice of.

The percentage of commission to be applied in case there is no sufficient trading activity between last deposits and withdraw request will be determined based on number of months with no sufficient trading activity as follows:

Activity	Percentage
1 month to 3 months	2%
3 months to 6 months	3%
More than 6 months	4.5%

2.9.2 The Company shall not provide any advice to the Customer on any tax issues related to any Services. The Customer is advised to obtain individual independent counsel from its financial advisor, auditor or legal counsel with respect to tax implications of the respective Services.

2.9.3 Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, in providing its Services, the Company shall be entitled to take any action considered necessary and reasonable to ensure compliance with the Market Rules and all other applicable laws and regulatory decisions. In the event that the Company considers it appropriate to take any actions against any of its customers, it will ensure that Customers are duly notified prior to any actions being taken.

3. DEALINGS BETWEEN THE COMPANY AND THE CUSTOMER

3.1 The customer may provide the Company with oral or written instructions (which shall include instructions provided via the internet or by e-mail as described below). The Company shall acknowledge the reception of the instructions orally or in writing, as appropriate.

3.2 The Customer shall inform the Company in writing of the persons the customer has granted a POA to instruct the Company on behalf of the Customer. For practical reasons, the Company can only undertake to register one POA for the Customer. If the Customer at any time wishes to revoke such a POA, to change the extent of the POA, or grant POA to a different person this shall also be informed to the Company in writing. The Company is in accordance with general rules regarding POAs entitled to receive instructions from any person authorized by the Customer as well as persons who appear authorized.

3.3 In addition to the terms listed on the Company's website and the terms stated in Section 5 regarding the TP, the following terms apply to Contracts executed on the internet:

3.3.1 The Company shall not undertake the risk towards Customers for any loss, expense, cost or liability suffered or incurred by the Customer due to failure of the system, transmission failure or delays or similar technical errors unless the Company has exercised gross negligence in connection herewith, notwithstanding Clause 4.9;

3.3.2 The Company may offer real-time tradable prices to the Customer. Due to delayed transmission between the Customer and the Company the price offered by the Company may have changed before an order from the Customer is received by the Company. If automatic order execution is offered to the Customer, the Company shall be entitled to change the price on which the Customer's order is executed to the market value at the time at which the order from the Customer was received;

3.3.3 Prices offered by the Company regarding the sale, purchase or exercise of COs reflect the price of the relevant exchange traded product. Due to delays from the Customer's execution of an order or instruction regarding a CO to the execution of the relevant exchange traded product on the exchange, the price as listed on the TP is subject to change, in order for the CO to reflect the price of the relevant exchange traded product at the time of its execution or exercise (as applicable);

3.3.4 The TP may be available in several versions, which may be differentiated in various aspects including, but not limited to the level of security applied, products and services available etc. The Company shall not be liable to the Customer for any loss, expense, cost or liability suffered or incurred by the Customer due to the Customer using a version different from the Company's standard version with all available updates installed;

3.3.5 The Customer shall be responsible for all orders, and for the accuracy of all information, sent via the internet using the Customer's name, password or any other personal identification means implemented to identify the Customer;

3.3.6 The Customer is obliged to keep passwords secret and ensure that third parties do not obtain access to the Customer's trading facilities;

3.3.7 If the TP is used for Commercial Use the Customer is liable to the Company for Contracts executed by use of the Customer's password even if such use might be wrongful;

3.3.8 Regardless of the fact that the TP might confirm that a Contract is executed immediately when the Customer transmits instructions via the TP, it is the Settlement/Trade Confirmation forwarded by the Company or made available to the Customer on the TP which solely constitutes the Company's confirmation of execution.

3.4 Any instruction sent via the TP or by e-mail by the Customer shall only be deemed to have been received and shall only then constitute a valid instruction and/or binding Contract between the Company and the Customer when such instruction has been recorded as executed by the Company and confirmed by the Company to the Customer through the Settlement/Trade Confirmation and/or Account Statement, and the mere transmission of an instruction by the Customer shall not constitute a binding Contract between the Company and the Customer.

3.5 The Customer shall promptly give any instructions to the Company, which the Company may require. If the Customer does not give such instructions promptly, the Company may, at its reasonable discretion, take such steps at the Customer's cost, as the Company considers necessary or desirable for its own protection or the protection of the Customer. This provision is similarly applicable in situations when the Company is unable to obtain contact with the Customer.

3.6 If the Customer does not provide the Company with notice of its intention to exercise an option, a CO or another Contract which requires an instruction from the Customer at the time stipulated by the Company, the Company may treat the option or Contract as abandoned by the Customer. If the Customer wishes to exercise an option, CO or another Contract, the Customer must provide the Company with notice thereof in reasonable time (and within applicable cut-off times) for the Company to exercise the corresponding right under any contract equivalent to the CO that the Company has entered into with any Counterparty. COs (put and call) that close one tick or more in the money on the last trading day will automatically be exercised, regardless of whether the Customer has purchased or sold the CO. The Customer cannot instruct the Company not to exercise COs that are in the money at expiry and cannot at any time instruct the Company to exercise COs that are out of the money.

3.7 The Company applies a random method of assignment among its Customers' COs when the Company is notified by its Counterparties that one or more short option positions have been assigned. LITTLE BLACK DIAMOND LTD's allocation method randomly selects short COs among all the Company's Customers' positions, including COs opened immediately prior to the assignment. All short COs are liable for assignment at any time. If a short CO is assigned, the Customer is obliged, within the applicable time of delivery, to deliver the relevant amount of cash or assets in the case of a call CO and the relevant amount of cash in the case of a put CO, to effect settlement.

3.8 The Company may (but shall not in any circumstances be obliged to) require confirmation in such form as the Company may reasonably request if an instruction is to close an Account or remit money due to the Customer or if it appears to the Company that such confirmation is necessary or desirable.

3.9 Pursuant to general rules regarding POA the Customer is accountable to the Company for losses which the Company may suffer as a result of instructions from a person who has explicitly or tacit POA to give the Company instructions on behalf of the Customer.

3.10 The Company reserves the right in its absolute discretion to cancel, unwind, close out, repair, reinstate or take other action it may deem necessary with respect to open or closed trades of Customer or instructions from the Customer where the trades executed or instructions submitted would be in violation of, but not limited to, the Agreement, securities markets legislation, usual market practices, legislation on money laundering or insider trading or if the Customer is using or has otherwise engaged proprietary or third party malicious and manipulative software or plugins or general trading style that in the Company's, its eligible counterparties' or liquidity providers' view, has the actual, suspected or potential nature of breaching the Agreement or the applicable laws or the Company believes that to execute its absolute discretion with the regards to the above matters is necessary to protect its own interests, or the interests of its Customers.

3.11 In general, the Company shall act according to instructions as soon as practically possible and shall, as far as trading instructions are concerned, act consistent with the broker's BEP. However, if after instructions are received, the Company believes that it is not reasonably practicable to act upon such instructions within a reasonable time, the Company may defer acting upon those instructions until it is, in the Company's reasonable opinion, practicable to do so or as soon as possible notify the Customer that the Company is refusing to act upon such instructions.

3.12 It is possible that errors may occur in the prices of transactions quoted by the Company. In such circumstances, without prejudice to any rights it may have, the Company shall not be bound by any Contract which purports to have been made (whether or not confirmed by the Company) at a price which:

- i. the Company is able to substantiate to the Customer was manifestly incorrect at the time of the transaction; or
- ii. Was, or ought to have reasonably been known by the Customer to be incorrect at the time of the transaction. In which case the Company reserves the right to either:
 - cancel the trade all together; or
 - correct the erroneous price at which the trade was done to either the price at which the Company hedged the trade or alternatively to the historic correct market price.

3.13 Trading strategies aimed at exploiting errors in prices and/or concluding trades at off-market prices (commonly known as "sniping") are not accepted by the Company. Provided that the Company can document that there on the time of the conclusion of the trade were errors in prices, commissions, or in the TP, and provided the Company can render probable that the Customer, based on its trading strategy or other provable behavior, deliberate and/or systematically has exploited or attempted to exploit such an error, the Company is entitled to take one or more of the following countermeasures:

- i. adjust the price spreads available to the Customer;
- ii. restrict the Customer's access to streaming, instantly tradable quotes, including providing manual quotation only;
- iii. retrieve from the Customer's account any historic trading profits that the Company can document have been gained through such abuse of liquidity at any time during the customer relationship; and/or iv terminate the customer relationship immediately by giving written notice.

3.14 If the Customer is more than one person (E.g., joint accountholders):

- i. the liabilities of each such person shall be direct, joint and several;
 - ii. the Company may act upon instructions received from anyone person who is, or appears to the Company to be, such a person, whether or not such person is an Authorized Person;
 - iii. any notice or other communication provided by the Company to one such person shall be deemed to have been provided to all such persons; and
 - iv. The rights of the Company under Clause 18 shall apply if an event described in Clause 18 shall be deemed to have occurred in respect of any one of such persons.

3.15 The Customer agrees that the Company may record all telephone conversations, internet conversations (chat), and meetings between the Customer and the Company and use such recordings, or transcripts from such recordings, as evidence towards any party (including, but not limited to, any regulatory authority and/or court of law) to whom the Company at its reasonable discretion sees it to be desirable or necessary to disclose such information in any dispute or anticipated dispute between the Company and the Customer. The Company will always ensure the systems are in good order at all times by having maintenance works at certain intervals. However, in case of accidental mechanical breakdowns of the Company's recording systems, technical reasons may prevent the Company from recording a conversation, and recordings or transcripts made by the Company will be destroyed in accordance with the Company's normal practice. Consequently, in that case, the Customer should not rely on such recordings to be available.

3.16 When the Customer instructs the Company to enter into a position opposite to one or more of the Customer's open positions, the Company will close out the opposite position in accordance with the FIFO principles unless the position has related orders or otherwise agreed.

3.17 The Customer acknowledges that the Company has the right to, but not the obligation to close directly opposite positions. This applies not only when the positions are held on the on the same account, but also when they are held on separate accounts.

3.18 If the Customer operates several Accounts (or sub-accounts) and opposite positions are opened on different Accounts (or sub-accounts), the Company shall not close out such positions. The Customer is specifically made aware that unless closed manually, all such positions may be rolled over on a continuous basis and thereby consequently all incur a cost for such roll-over.

4. SPECIAL NOTE ON THE USE OF THE TRADING PLATFORM

4.1 The technical requirements to which the Customer's IT equipment, operating system, Internet connection etc. shall conform are described on the Company's website.

4.2 The Customer shall enter his user ID and password when logging on to the TP. The Customer should memorize the password. The Customer is obligated to notify the Company without undue delay on becoming aware of unauthorized use of the TP, or if the Customer suspects that the password has been misappropriated by a third party, the Customer shall contact the Company immediately to block his TP. The Customer can then order a new password. The Customer is for a period of 18 months after notification entitled to request the Company to provide the Customer with the means to prove that he made such notification.

4.3 The Customer can block his TP at any time by contacting the Company. Blocking the TP prevents other persons from accessing it. Open orders and positions placed on the platform before the blocking will not be affected by the blocking unless the Customer specifically requests so, and the Customer is responsible for deciding about his positions.

4.4 The right to use the TP is personal, and the Customer shall not allow other persons to use his user ID and/or his password. If the Customer wants to allow a third party to trade on the Customer's account, the Customer shall issue a separate POA to the relevant third party. The POA shall be written on one of the Company's POA forms. The issue of the POA shall be approved by the Company.

4.5 From the TP the Customer can print reports on trading activities and his/her account balances.

4.6 Where the Customer has placed an order which he subsequently regrets, the Customer may request that the order be cancelled up until the time of execution. The Customer is aware that the Company is under no obligation to cancel the order. A request for cancellation or an order can be made via the TP or by calling the Company Sales Trading. Requests concerning cancellation of orders generated when the margin is exceeded can only be made to the Company Sales Trading. An order shall not be considered to be cancelled until the Customer has received a written confirmation from the Company.

4.7 The Customer shall not be liable for unlawful use of the TP occurring after the Customer has informed the Company.

4.8 Where the TP is used for Private Use, the Company shall be liable for direct losses resulting from defectively executed orders, unless defectively executed order is due to conditions for which the Customer is liable. The Company shall not be liable for any indirect losses.

4.9 The Company shall not be liable for losses in cases of abnormal and unforeseeable circumstances beyond the control of the Company pleading for the application of those circumstances, the consequences of which would have been unavoidable despite all efforts to the contrary.

4.10 If the TP is used for Commercial use the Company shall not be liable for any indirect losses and/or losses resulting from:

- i Operational failures preventing the use of the TP;
- ii Interruptions preventing the Customer from accessing the TP;
- iii Use of the Internet as a means of communication and transport;
- iv Damage caused by matters relating to the Customer's own computer systems.

4.11 The Company shall not be responsible for losses resulting from the Customer's installation and use of the computer programs used on the TP, unless such liability follows from indispensable rules of law. Where the TP is used for Commercial Use, the Customer shall be responsible for ensuring that the TP is adequately insured against direct and indirect losses which may result from the installation and use of the computer programs in the Customer's computer system. Furthermore, the Customer shall be obliged to make backup copies of data which, should such data be lost, might result in losses for the Customer.

4.12 The Company reserves the right to archive or disable the Customer Account that is inactive (no trading and/or deposit/withdrawal activity) for at least ninety (90) calendar days and has a balance of equal or less than ten (10) euros or equivalent in other currencies. The Customer Account may be restored from archive only to generate a report/statement and not for trading or depositing. Restored Customer Account is again put back to archive once the report/statement is generated. The Customer may always open a new trading account and is allowed to transfer any archived balance to the new account. The Company shall inform the Customer prior to or after activation/disabling of their account(s).

5. MARGINS, SECURITY, PAYMENTS AND DELIVERY

5.1 The Customer shall pay to the Company on demand:

- i. Such sums of money by way of deposits, or as initial or variation margin as the Company may require. In the case of a Contract effected by the Company on an exchange, such margin shall be not less than the amount or percentage stipulated by the relevant exchange plus any additional margin that the Company at its reasonable discretion may require;

- ii. such sums of money as may from time to time be due to the Company under a Contract and such sums as may be required in or towards clearance of any debit balance on any Account;
 - iii. such sums of money as the Company may from time to time require as security for the Customer's obligations to the Company; and
 - iv. Any amount to maintain a positive cash balance on any and all Account(s).

5.2 When dealing with COs the Company will enter into a contract with its Counterparties which is identical in all respects to the CO between the Company and the Customer and the Company may under such Counterparty contract be required to deliver additional margin from time to time. The Company may without notice change the margin requirement towards the Customer to reflect changes in applicable margin requirements for the Company from time to time under any Counterparty contract.

5.3 If the Customer makes any payment which is subject to any price fluctuations, withholding or deduction, the Customer shall pay to the Company such additional amount to ensure that the amount actually received by the Company will equal the full amount the Company would have received had no price fluctuations, withholding or deduction been made.

10.2 If the Customer fails to fulfill any obligation under this Agreement, the Company is entitled to sell any pledged Security immediately without any notice or court action. Such sale shall take place by the means that the Company in its reasonable discretion determines and at the price that the Company in its reasonable discretion determines to be the best obtainable.

11. NETTING AGREEMENT

11.1 If on any date the same amounts are payable under this Agreement by each party to the other in the same currency, then, each party's obligations to make payment of any such amount will be automatically satisfied by netting. If the amounts are not in the same currency, the amounts are converted by the Company in accordance with the principles referred to in Clause 9.0.

11.2 If the aggregate amount that is payable by one party exceeds the aggregate amount that is payable by the other party, then the party by whom the larger aggregate amount is payable shall pay the excess to the other party and the obligations to make payment of each party will be satisfied and discharged.

11.3 If the Customer, at any time during the Customer relationship, has a negative cash-balance in any Account, the Company is entitled but not obligated to net between the Customer's Accounts. The Customer shall bear all the charges and any other costs associated with such netting in accordance with the Commissions, Charges & Margin Schedule.

11.5 Rates based on which the Contracts shall be closed shall be market rates applicable on the day on which the Company decides to close the Contracts.

11.6 The Company may at its reasonable discretion determine the rates by obtaining an offer from a Market Maker in the asset in question or by applying rates from electronic financial information systems.

11.7 When determining the value of the Contracts to be netted, the Company shall apply its usual spreads and include all costs and other charges.

11.8 This netting agreement shall be binding towards the estate and creditors of the parties to the customer relationship.

12. MARKET MAKING

12.1 When the Company executes orders as Agent for the Customer on a recognized stock or futures exchange, the Company will not be a party to such a trade as such orders will be executed in the trading system of the relevant exchange at the best price and the most favorable conditions available at the time of the order or according to the Customer's specific instructions, e.g., in a situation where the Customer has chosen to limit the order. The Company will not include any additional spread in the price of the execution achieved for the Customer but will be remunerated according to the Commissions, Charges & Margin Schedule.

12.2 The Customer is specifically made aware that in certain markets, including the foreign exchange markets, OTC foreign exchange options and CFD Contracts, the Company may act as a Market Maker.

12.3 When acting as a Market Maker, the Company will under normal market circumstances quote the Customer bid and ask prices.

12.4 In order for the Company to quote prices with the swiftness normally associated with speculative trading, the Company may have to rely on available price or availability information that may later prove to be faulty due to specific market circumstances, for instance, but not limited to, lack of liquidity in or suspension of an asset or errors in feeds from information providers or quotes from Counterparties. If so and if the Company has acted in good faith when providing the price to the Customer, the Company may cancel the trade with the Customer but shall do so within reasonable time and shall provide the Customer with a full explanation for the reason for such cancellation.

12.5 Following execution of any position with a Customer, the Company may at the Company's reasonable discretion subsequently offset each such customer position with another customer position, or a position with one of the Company's Counterparties or retain a proprietary position in the market with the intention to obtain trading profits from such positions. Such decisions and actions may therefore result in the Company off-setting customer positions at prices different (sometimes significantly different) from prices quoted to customers, resulting in trading profits or losses for the Company. This in turn can raise the possibility of the Customer incurring what may be seen as an implied cost (i.e., the difference between the price at which the Customer traded with the Company and the price at which the Company subsequently traded with Counterparties and/or other customers) due to any profits realized by the Company as a result of the Market Making function. However, the Market Making function may involve significant costs to the Company if the market moves against the Company as compared to the price at which the Company traded with the Customer.

12.6 The Customer accepts that the Company in such markets where the Company acts as Market Maker, may hold positions that are contrary to positions of the Customer, resulting in potential conflicts of interest between the Company and the Customer, cf. Clause 15.

12.7 In markets, where the Company acts as a Market Maker, the Customer accepts that the Company has no obligation to quote prices to customers at all times in any given market, nor to quote such prices to customers with a specific maximum spread.

12.8 In markets, where the Company acts as a Market Maker, the Company may or may not charge commissions. However, irrespective of whether or not the Company charges any commissions, the Customer accepts that the Company will seek to make additional profits out of its performance as a Market Maker and the size of any such profits may be considerable if and when compared with the Customer's margin deposit.

12.9 The Customer acknowledges, recognizes and accepts that the price quoted to the Customer includes a spread when compared with the price to which the Company may have covered or expected to be able to cover the Contract in a trade with another customer or a Counterparty. Furthermore, the Customer acknowledges, recognizes and accepts that said spread constitutes remuneration to the Company and that such spread not necessarily can be calculated for all Contracts and that such spread will not be specified at the Settlement/Trade Confirmation or otherwise revealed to the Customer.

12.10 The Customer acknowledges, recognizes and accepts that the Company quotes variable spreads on options. The Customer is specifically made aware that variable option spreads are affected by actual market conditions, which are beyond the Company's control. The Company does not guarantee any maximum or minimum quotable option spreads.

12.11 Any commission costs, interest charges, costs associated to and included in the spreads quoted by the Company as a Market Maker in certain markets and other fees and charges will consequently influence the Customer's trading result and will have a negative effect on the Customer's trading performance compared to a situation if such commission costs, interest charges, costs associated to and included in the spreads did not apply.

12.12 Whilst dealing spreads and commissions are normally considered moderate seen in relation to the value of the assets traded, such costs may be considerable when compared with the Customer's margin deposit. As a consequence, thereof the Customer's margin deposit may be depleted by trading losses that the Customer may incur and by the directly visible dealing costs such as commissions, interest charges and brokerage fees as well as the said not visible costs for the Customer, caused by the Company's performance as a Market Maker.

12.13 If the Customer is an active trader and is undertaking numerous transactions, the total impact of as well visible as not visible costs may be significant. Consequently, the Customer may have to obtain significant profits in the markets in order to cover the costs associated with trading activities with the Company. For very active Customers, such costs may over time exceed the value of the margin deposited. Normally, when trading margined derivatives, the lower the percentage of the applicable margin rate, the higher the proportion of the costs associated with executing a transaction.

12.14 The Customer is specifically made aware that in the area of market making in foreign exchange, OTC foreign exchange options, CFD Contracts and other OTC products, significant implied costs can arise as a consequence of the profits made by the Company performing in its capacity as a Market Maker.

12.15 The Company's performance as a Market Maker may negatively affect the Customer's Account with the Company and the said implied costs are neither directly visible nor directly quantifiable for the Customer at any time.

12.16 The Company is at no time obliged to disclose any details of its performance or income produced as a Market Maker or otherwise related to other commissions, charges and fees.

12.17 The Customer is specifically made aware that CFD Contracts may be OTC products quoted by the Company whilst operating as a Market Maker and not traded on a recognized stock exchange. As a result, the description above of the implied, not visible costs related to the Company's performance as a Market Maker may also apply to any CFD Contract.

13. AGGREGATION AND SPLIT

13.1 The Company is in accordance with the broker's BEP entitled to aggregate the Customer's orders with the broker's own orders, orders of any of the broker's associates and/or persons connected with the Company including employees and other customers. Furthermore, the Company may split the Customer's orders when executing these. The orders will only be aggregated or split if the Company reasonably believes it to be in the best interest of the Customer. On some occasion's aggregation and split of the Customer's order may result in the Customer obtaining a less favorable price than if the Customer's orders had been executed respectively separately or mutually. In case the Company shall split the Customer's orders when executing them, same shall be notified to the Customer prior any actions taken by the Company.

14. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

14.1 The Company its associates or other persons or companies connected with the Company may have an interest, relationship or arrangement that is material in relation to any transaction or Contract effected, or advice provided by the Company, under this Agreement. By accepting this Agreement and the Company's Conflict of Interest Policy (which distinctly describes the general character and/or background of any conflict of interest) the Customer agrees that the Company may transact such business without prior reference to any potential specific conflict of interest.

15. LITTLEBLACKDIAMONDLTD 'S COUNTERPARTIES

15.1 In order to give effect to the Customer's instructions, the Company may instruct a Counterparty selected at the Company's discretion and the Company shall do so where the transaction is to be subject to the rules of an exchange or market of which the Company a member is not.

15.2 The Company shall not be responsible for errors committed by such Counterparties unless it is proven that the Company has not acted with sufficient care when selecting the Counterparty.

16. INTRODUCING BROKERS

16.1 The Customer may have been referred to the Company by an IB. If so, the Company shall not be responsible for any agreement made between the Customer and the Customer's IB. The Customer acknowledges that any such IB will either be acting as an independent intermediary or an Agent for the Customer and that no such IB shall be authorized to make any representations concerning the Company or the Company's Services.

16.2 The Customer is specifically made aware that the Customer's agreement with its IB may result in additional costs as the Company may pay fees or commission to such person.

16.3 The Customer is also specifically made aware that the Customer's agreement with its IB may result in additional costs for the customer because the IB can deduct commissions and fees as well as price or interest/financing rate adjustments for any trade conducted on or allocated to the Customer's account either by the IB or the Customer.

16.4 If the IB undertakes any deductions from the Customer's Trading Account according to any agreement between the Customer and the IB, the Company has no responsibility as to the existence or validity of such an agreement.

16.5 The Company shall have no responsibility or liability to the Customer in following the instructions given by the IB. The Company is under no obligation to supervise or otherwise know or review the payment instructions or any other acts, including but not limited to the trading, of the IB.

16.6 The customer acknowledges and accepts that frequent transactions may result in a sum total of commissions, fees, price or interest/financing rate adjustments for trades conducted that may be substantial and not necessarily be offset by the net profits, if any, achieved from the relevant trades. The responsibility for correctly assessing whether the size of the total commissions, fees, price or interest/financing rate adjustments for trades conducted paid from the Customer's account makes trading commercially viable, is the combined responsibility of the Customer and the IB. The Company only acts as the custodian and principal broker, and therefore is not responsible for the size of the commissions and fees as well as price or interest rate paid by the Customer.

16.7 Any commissions, fees, price or interest/financing rate adjustments for trades conducted may be shared between the IB, the Company and third parties according to the IB's written instructions and/or at the Company's discretion.

17. DEFAULT AND DEFAULT REMEDIES

17.1 The provisions contained in this Clause supplement any other rights that the Company or any of its associates have according to this Agreement, including but not limited to the Pledge Agreement referred to in Clause 10.0, and furthermore any other rights the Company has.

17.2 The Company reserves the right to retain, or make deductions from, any amounts which the Company owes to or is holding for the Customer if any amounts are due from the Customer to the Company or the Company's associates.

17.3 The Customer authorizes the Company, at the Company's discretion, at any time and with notice, to sell, apply, set-off and/or charge in any manner any or all of the Customer's property and/or the proceeds of any of the same of which the Company or any of its associates or Agents has custody or control, in order to discharge any or all of the Customer's obligations to the Company or to the Company's associates.

27. RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT FOR TRADES IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND DERIVATIVES

This brief statement, which constitutes an addition to this Agreement, does not disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of trading foreign exchange and derivatives.

In consideration of the risks, you should enter into transactions with the mentioned products only if you understand the nature of the contracts and the contractual legal relationship into which you are entering and the extent of your exposure to risk. Transactions in foreign exchange and derivatives are not suitable for many members of the public. You should carefully consider whether transacting is appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.

I agree.

APPENDIX 1

FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND DERIVATIVES

1.1 Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing"

Transactions in foreign exchange and derivatives carry a high degree of risk. The amount of initial margin may be small relative to the value of the foreign exchange or derivatives contract so that transactions are "leveraged" or "geared". A relatively small market movement will have a proportionately larger impact on the funds you have deposited or will have to deposit; this may work against you as well as for you. You may sustain a total loss of initial margin funds and any additional funds deposited with the Company to maintain your position. If the market moves against your position and/or margin requirements are increased, you may be called upon to deposit additional funds on short notice to maintain your position. Failing to comply with a request for a deposit of additional funds, may result in closure of your position(s) by the Company on your behalf and you will be liable for any resulting loss or deficit.

1.2 RISK-REDUCING ORDERS OR STRATEGIES

The placing of certain orders (e.g., "stop-loss" orders, where permitted under local law, or "stop-limit" orders), which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts, may not be adequate given that markets conditions make it impossible to execute such orders, e.g., due to illiquidity in the market. Strategies using combinations of positions, such as "spread" and "straddle" positions may be as risky as taking simple "long" or "short" positions.

1. OPTIONS

1.1. Variable Degree of Risk

Transactions in options carry a high degree of risk. Purchasers and sellers of options should familiarize themselves with the type of option (i.e., put or call) which they contemplate trading and the associated risks. You should calculate the extent to which the value of the options must increase for your position to become profitable, taking into account the premium and all transaction costs. The purchaser of options may offset or exercise the options or allow the option to expire. The exercise of an option results either in a cash settlement or in the purchaser acquiring or delivering the underlying interest. If the option is on a future, the purchaser will acquire a futures position with associated liabilities for margin (see the section on Futures above). If the purchased option is out-of-the-money when it expires, you will suffer a total loss of your investment, which will consist of the option premium plus transaction costs. If you are contemplating purchasing out-of-the-money options, you should be aware that the chance of such options becoming profitable ordinarily is remote.

Selling ("writing" or "granting") an option generally entails considerably greater risk than purchasing options. Although the premium received by the seller is fixed, the seller may sustain a loss well in excess of that amount. The seller will be liable for additional margin to maintain the position if the market moves unfavorably. The seller will also be exposed to the risk of the purchaser exercising the option and the seller will be obligated to either settle the option in cash or to acquire or deliver the underlying interest. If the option is on a future, the seller will acquire a position in a future with associated liabilities for margin (see the section on Futures above). If the option is "covered" by the seller holding a corresponding position in the underlying asset, in a future or in another option, the risk may be reduced. In case the option is not covered, the risk of loss can be unlimited.

Certain exchanges in some jurisdictions permit deferred payment of the option premium, exposing the purchaser to liability for margin payments not exceeding the amount of the premium. The purchaser is still subject to the risk of losing the premium and transaction costs. When the option is exercised or expires, the purchaser is responsible for any unpaid premium outstanding at that time.

2. ADDITIONAL RISKS COMMON TO FOREIGN EXCHANGE AND DERIVATIVE TRANSACTIONS

2.1. Terms and Conditions of Contracts

You should ask the firm with which you deal about the terms and conditions of the Contracts entered into and information on associated obligations (e.g., the circumstances under which you may become obligated to make or take delivery of the underlying interest of a futures contract and, in respect of options, expiration dates and restrictions on the time for exercise). Under certain circumstances the specifications of outstanding contracts (including the exercise price of an option) may be modified by the exchange or clearing house to reflect changes in the underlying interest.

2.2. Suspension or Restriction of Trading and Pricing Relationships

Market condition (e.g., illiquidity) and/or the operation of the rules of certain markets (e.g., the suspension of trading in any contract or contract month because of price limits or "circuit breakers") may increase the risk of loss by making it difficult or impossible to effect transactions or close/ offset positions. If you have sold options, this may increase the risk of loss.

Normal pricing relationships between the underlying asset and a derivative do not always exist. The absence of an underlying reference price may make it difficult to judge "fair" value.

2.3. Deposited Cash and Property

You should familiarize yourself with the protections accorded the Security you deposit by way of money or other assets in domestic and foreign transactions, particularly in the event of a firm insolvency or bankruptcy. The extent to which you may recover your money or other assets is governed by the legislation and local rules in the country at which location the counterparty acts.

2.4. Commission and Other Charges

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commission, fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit or loss.

2.5. Transactions in Other Jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation, which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Your local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where your transactions have been affected.

2.6. Currency Risks

The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts in another currency than your account currency will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to the account currency.

2.7. Trading Facilities

Most open-outcry and electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. Your ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house and/or member firms. Such limits may vary: you should ask the firm with which you deal for details in this respect.

2.8. Electronic Trading

Trading on an electronic trading system may differ not only from trading in an open outcry market but also from trading on other electronic trading systems. If you undertake transactions on an electronic trading system, you will be exposed to risks associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that your order is either not executed according to your instructions, is not executed at all and a lack of capability to keep you informed continuously about your positions and fulfillment of the margin requirements.

2.9. Off-Exchange Transactions

In some jurisdictions firms are permitted to effect off-exchange transactions. The firm with which you deal may be acting as your counterpart to the transaction. It may be difficult or impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value, to determine a fair price or to assess the exposure to risk. For these reasons, these transactions may involve increased risks. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime. Before you undertake such transactions, you should familiarize yourself with applicable rules and attendant risks.
